DETECTIVE BUREAUS

Himself to Indiana Authorities—Is Charged With Kidnapping—Released on Bail.

(Western Associated Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 25.—James Hosick, the Los Angeles detective who charged with kidnapping the California city after his arrest here, and was indicted with William J. Burns on the charge of kidnapping the labor leader, arrived in this city late today and availed himself of his appearance in the criminal court. Hosick said that as far as he knew, Henry Seyfried, deputy prosecuting attorney of this county, and Wm. Hall, special agent who went to California with a request for him, were still in that state.

CABINET MINISTER IN STORM

(Western Associated Press)

Cardiff, Alaska, Aug. 25.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher and his party were caught in a storm that is sweeping over Governor and made the landing last night at Port, at the mouth of the Behning river. It is believed they are camped there, though they may have decided to walk over the hills to Kalluk, five miles away.

REBUKE TO TALBOT A TRIUMPH FOR LIBERALISM

The rebuke administered to Senator Peter Talbot at the Victoria convention on Saturday is equivalent to a declaration of emancipation from boss rule by the electors of that constituency and notification to all such as he that the free and independent of the province of Alberta no longer tolerate the proprietary system of politics which seeks to place in the hands of any individual the ownership and control of the votes of the whole people.

Senator Talbot's attempt to arrogate to himself the right to dominate the affairs of the liberal party, to name the time and the place of conventions and to force his will upon the rank and file is the most ornate effrontery of authority of which any man could be guilty, an assumption of authority which marks him as a danger to the party and to the forces that are working for democratic government and representative political institutions.

So long as Senator Talbot is willing to work for the party and to conform to its aims and objects his allegiance to liberalism may be considered an asset. When he undertakes to make the party work for him and to dictate the aims and objects of the whole party his dominance must be considered a menace to liberalism which every intelligent voter has a right to resent.

In flatly denying Senator Talbot's right to dictate to the liberal party and to over-ride the will of its local associations the Victoria convention did more for the good of liberalism than Senator Talbot could ever hope to do. They have declared against boss rule, have taken the affairs of the liberal party out of the hands of a boss and have put the control back where it belongs, in the hands of the free citizenship of which the liberal party is constituted.

This is good liberalism and general democracy, the spirit in which a party thrives and grows.

AN EMPIRE IN THE HANDS OF THE PROLETARIAT

The strike which so recently threw Great Britain into a state of confusion and tied up her commerce as completely as a siege has finished with the labor forces triumphant and in full control of the situation.

Labor leaders for generations back have believed and preached that if the forces of labor could be so united and solidified that they would act in common for a common purpose they could control the world. In Great Britain they have reached the stage of perfection in organization dreamed of by the prophets of labor, and the recent strike is merely a demonstration of their power.

But it is not only in the industrial field that labor has triumphed in Britain. In the house of commons they are effectively control the government. Without their support the Asquith ministry could not stand, and it is quite safe to say that no government is likely to be formed in Great Britain without the labor members could not upset.

To those who understand the philosophies of labor and who appreciate its aims the present situation in Britain will be recognized as the dawning of a new era. For the first time in the history of the human race an empire has fallen into the hands of the proletariat. No man at the present moment can say what the outcome will be as the ability of the forces of labor to govern an empire are yet untried. But of the century of education which they have been going through to arrive at the present situation has given them the genius of government which the circumstances demand the historians will have many chapters to write within the next decade which will contain a story altogether new and unique in the record of government and sociology.

FRANK OLIVER NEEDS TO BE SAVED FROM HIS FRIENDS

If Frank Oliver ever prays one of his most fervent prayers should be that he be saved from his friends.

Speaking in his behalf on Friday evening at a smoker given in the Oliver committee rooms—which is as near as Frank Oliver ever comes to holding a public meeting these days—W. H. McKenny, member of the legislature for Pembina, told his audience that the reason why the minister of the interior had given pre-emptions in the south and not in the north was so that the south might be filled up first, after which there would be no place for the settlers to go except north.

As Frank Oliver was present at the time and offered no amendment to the statement made by McKenny it must be accepted as correct.

But for Edmontonians to learn that the minister of the interior considers it good policy to make such arrangements as discriminate against the north in favor of the south will certainly not add much to the waning popularity of Frank Oliver.

ONLY ONE DEDUCTION FROM OLIVER'S ACTIONS

With the nomination of "Nobby" White in Victoria nominations have now been held in every constituency in the province.

At not one of these conventions has Frank Oliver appeared.

Frank Oliver's position as member of the cabinet for the west makes him the logical champion of liberalism in the prairie provinces and the man responsible for the success of the party between the lakes and the mountains.

Frank Oliver's failure to appear outside his own constituency leaves room for only one interpretation: That he has relinquished the responsibility of champion of liberalism in the west.

With which there can be linked only one corollary: That Frank Oliver expects to relinquish his cabinet position.

LITTLE BOBBIE'S PA

By William F. Kirk

Pa & Ma & I went up to the Central Park Zoo yesterday with sum friends of mine, Mister & Missus Brooks & there lived boy.

I didn't want to go at first, because I had been in the Zoo a grate many times, but Ma told me that I would get a chance to meet the little Brooks boy, his name is Irving Brooks Junior.

He is just about yore size, Bobbie sed Pa, & I think he can beat you in a fair fight. So if you come along we will let you two go anywhere you say & have it out, sed Pa. Then, of course, I had to go.

Pa & Ma & Mister & Missus Brooks rode in two seats in the omnibus & left us in the back seat two-gather, me & Irving Brooks Junior. I cut see the way that he was trying for to pick a file with me, because the first thing he sed was, "Bobbie, I don't like brunettes, & what do you know about that?"

My Ma is a brunette, I told him, & if you dare say that you don't like her I will hop one of yore nose.

Heer, heer, sed Pa, & Mister Brooks, wait till we get to the Zoo. We will find a nice quiet place for the two of you to fight out. So we waited, but at the time I was fighting out my line of attack. There never was a good filer, Pa told me out, that didn't plan his battle ahead.

When we got up to the Zoo we began looking at the monkeys & the other wild beests, & every time I sed that a monkey was handsome that Brooks kid would say that it was homely, & every time I sed one was homely he sed that it was handsome. Everything I ever sed to him, he would always say to me, I fer you are wrong. He even told me that Caruso was never in Central Park, & then I lost my temper. I hit him with my fist, & he began to cry.

Irving Brooks Junior on his beeper & made it bleed. Pa told me I shud always call a monkey a beezzer, it is moar correct, Pa sed.

Then the things had went too far for to stop, we had to have it out, & Pa & Ma & Mister Brooks took us around behind the Zoo & we went to a good & hard. Mister Brooks was telling his son how to hit me & he sed so excited that he told his son wrong, because every time that Junior would start to hit me I hit him first.

To go him, kid, sed Pa, his father onst double crossed me in a foot race. Git him. Soak him.

Jest then Ma & Missus Brooks came around the corner of the Zoo, & they beest sed, "How brutal! Why is it brutal? sed Pa, ven they cudent hit each other hard enough to raise a blister. It is jest good exercise, Pa sed. They will be soong at it for fifteen minuts or so, & then it will be over & they will be jest as good friends.

How many minuts did you say? asked Irving Brooks Junior.

Fifteen minuts, sed Pa. No, sed Irving Brooks Junior, and not even fifteen seconds. Then he ran away as fast as lightning.

Thare he goes, sed Pa, that is the way his father ran the time he dubel-crossed me in the footrace.

It must be tuff to be an actor's son and get licked beesides.

Instead of pulling the outer cloth on the lining board with common licks use thumb licks. They are very convenient in changing the covering, are perfectly smooth and look much neater.

The Boy She Used to Know

By Damon Runyon

Times when he comes staggering home, breathing a wicked curse; Out of the drums of the midnight slums, empty of soul and purse; She waits for him with a patient smile, and her eyes so pearly show.

That she sees in him not his wreck and woe, but a boy she used to know.

Times when he's broken in pride and health and the world says, "Failure, here." And he slides through life with the fear of strife that the beaten men always fear.

She doesn't see what the world must see, that he's dropped to a depth so low. And her eyes light up with the light of love for the boy she used to know.

Times, maybe, when the prison doors have closed on his worthless back. And they've cried his name and his brand of shame to the world in a wild attack.

She waits for him with that patient smile through the years that tread so slow. And she sees in him, in his bittered hour the boy she used to know.

She looks on him with the eyes that saw his charm in the time of youth; In the golden days when they planned their ways, and his words were the words of truth.

She waits for him, and she prays for him as she prayed in the long ago. For she sees in him not the man we see, but the boy she used to know.

POINTS OF VIEW

By Miles Overholt

When you walk— The cash-strapped chauffeurs drive Like streak of lead from a common mouth.

To go straight you vainly strive— You're got to turn and amble south. The hunk and hunk, and scare you blind.

You climb a pole or faint away; To save your bones you lose your mind. And this goes on from day to day.

When you ride— The people in the street Give you a look at every turn; They're always on the auto's beat.

Somehow the dubs don't seem to young and hunk, and still they come. You've got to stop and let 'em pass.

And yet you must respect them some. Although they're plainly not your class. When you ride.

Of National Importance

By J. Edgar Middleton

"Oh, say, did you see," said Miss Andrus to the Rev. Mr. Zerk, "in casual talk with Ben Zeas of Suda."

"That Willy, our foe, has been bumped in the eye. For getting too gay in his Pure Food act, and not mind he care."

Frank H. Bigelow

Frank H. Bigelow, noted as a meteorologist, was born in Concord, Mass., August 28, 1851, and received his education at Harvard university. After his graduation in 1872 he went to the Argentine Republic and for three years was astronomer at the famous Cordoba observatory. While in South America he took part in Dr. B. A. Gould's exploration of the Southern Hemisphere. Upon his return from Argentina he Bigelow took a course in theology at the Cambridge Theological seminary. From 1884 to 1889 he was professor of mathematics at Barre college, which position he resigned to join the United States Weather bureau in western Africa. Since 1891 Dr. Bigelow has been professor of meteorology in the United States weather bureau at Washington and at the same time has been professor of solar physics in Columbia university in that city.

FORECAST
At the present rate of development and growth Edmonton will have a population of 100,000 in 1915 and an assessed valuation of $130,000,000. Its street railway mileage will be 90 miles; paved streets and boulevards, 70 miles; 200 miles of sewers; 250 miles of water mains.

Edmonton is growing faster than it can be polished, it is young and rough, but three years will witness a most remarkable development.

Establish yourself in Edmonton now, get busy, grow with the city and make your fortune.

Every knife handles that have become yellowed by constant washing may be whitened by a good rubbing with emery paper and then polishing with chamois.

A good way to bleach linen or lace is to put it into a bowl of soapy water and set it out in the strong sunlight. If it is exposed to dirt and dust, place a glass over the bowl.

An asbestos mat under the bread pan will help the bread to rise on a cold night, as it will prevent the bottom being chilled. The ordinary stove mat may be used.

Fruit stains may be removed by holding the stained portion over a bowl and pouring boiling water through the material.

The Latter-Day Son of Man
By James Ravenscroft

This is a song of the Son of Man, Who was once the lord and master in an ancient day ere Woman's sway His rule brought to disaster; Ere he set his foot in the hurling swirl of Her he worshipped and called the Fair.

Ere he bent his neck to Her heavy yoke, Ere on the wheel of Her will was broke.

I spend my days Of Her spooled ways Of trails that men must travel; In the teeming lives Where grinning lives On up in ease and revel;

And into Her hand my soul I pour, And I strive and suffer to win Her more.

The altar fires Of Her spooled desires Are mine to feed and kindle; With the ease of apoll, With sweet of toil, Nor halt, lest they should dwindle, And I cast me down before Her throne.

As the heathen one to his wood and stone, And while I live Of my grinning I give— All, all for Her expended; And what of my soul Is left me whole

Scratches on polished wood, if not too deep, can be removed by rubbing gently with fine sandpaper and then with a mixture of olive oil and tincture. A varnished floor can be cleaned more easily if sprinkled with coarse salt, which is allowed to stand for a few minutes, then brushed off with a soft broom.

When making lemonade one of the lemons may be peeled and run through meat chopper with a small piece of the peel. This will give the lemonade a delightfully pungent flavor.

Real Estate BULLETIN

The movement on Jasper avenue west still continues, and we do not hesitate to predict that the next few weeks will witness one of the largest turnovers of Jasper properties west of Ninth street ever before recorded in the history of this city.

The steady demand for properties through the past summer months in all residential districts of the city has laid a foundation for a real estate movement which is appealing alike to large and small investors. It is hardly necessary to state that this movement is increasing and that we are now in an era of prosperity the like of which has never before been known in this municipality.

POLICE RELEASE YOUNG BURGLARS

BOYS STEAL FROM JASPER AVENUE STORE, ARE ARRESTED, ADMIT GUILTY, TURNED LOOSE

To break into a candy store by smashing the glass and gaining access to the spring lock, lifting a few boxes of candy, and then parade the street with hilarity, is an offense which requires some straight talk from the police and release on recognition with the instructions to do no more. So it seems they have been demonstrated at 2 a.m. Sunday when three young men confounding to have accidentally broken such a door were presented with such a lecture and told that they were real naughty boys to be out so late at night and particularly with brains smacking so. So there.

The discovery of an open door at the Charles Hepburn confectionery, 139 Jasper west, early Sunday morning caused the police to be notified. The front door had the glass broken and stood ajar, while the cash register was open. The police were called and the owner of the establishment was notified. Nothing was found missing, not even the half dollar in the till. Shortly three young men were accosted due to the liability of one of them and they admitted having broken the glass, accidentally. A search of them brought out a two-pound box of candy from one and a one-pound box from another. This suspicious circumstance caused them to be taken to the police station where they were lectured and started home.

NAMAYO BUILDING IS FALLING DOWN

STRUCTURE OWNED BY POKONA MAN THREATENS COLLAPSE—POLICE TAKE PRECAUTIONS

As the outcome of the excavation proceeding on an adjoining lot, the foundations of the building occupied by J. A. Pinchney, 141 Namayo ave., began to collapse yesterday afternoon, and cracking timbers and falling plaster warned the occupants of their danger.

Immediately the police were notified and erected a paling around the building. There seems to be no means of proping the collapsing wall, and no further work can be done, either on the excavation for the new building or the repairs of the old, until the wall falls.

The building is of two stories and of brick veneer. It is owned by J. Lee of Ponoka, and occupied by Pinchney's store, the Household Bazaar and the Namayo Meat Market, a branch of the Swift Canadian Company, managed by W. A. McLeod.

203 WINDSOR BLOCK

WELSH CHOIR IS COMING IN SEPT.

EASTERN CRITICS PAY HIGH COMPLIMENTS TO WORLD FAIRED BODY OF SINGERS

That the Royal Welsh Ladies choir which comes to the Empire theatre on September 29 and 30, surpasses by far both in chorus singing and solo work any other singing organization which has visited Canada in recent years, is the opinion expressed by the Montreal Gazette in commenting on the concert given at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, last week.

"The choir in the ensemble work," says the Gazette, "sang with the precision and perfection of an army band under a master's touch, every section nicely balanced, and the voices carefully selected so that the solos as well as the part of the same instrument. At the same time they sang with a verve and animation rarely heard, evidently enjoying the singing as much as the audience delighted in listening to it. In fact, they produced a volume of sound that fairly made the hall ring. The sopranos were particularly fine, with the bright, clear voices that are seldom heard in the choir of the old Country choirs, while they were balanced by an exceptional collection of contraltos."

"In the most intricate contrapuntal passages of the Welsh airs the singers never lost the effect, and the most delicate work of each part was clearly brought out, with a precision of attack and distinctness of touch that produced charming effects."

"And further, the choir sang with a perfect freedom of interpretation that should prove a lesson to anyone interested in choral work, since it is a point almost universally conceded that the professional organizations, their every word was clearly given, without straining effect, a decided relief after the slurring work that audiences here are so unfortunately accustomed to. The program of the chorus was sufficiently varied, and so even was their costume. In the first part the time Welsh costume, with red cloaks and high hats, producing a picturesque effect, which drew forth rounds of applause at their appearance. In the second part they appeared in more conventional evening dress."

"Perhaps the most delightful effects produced by their choir were in several numbers, where the choir was accompanied by a humming accompaniment—one of the most difficult things to achieve, which they carried off well done by perfectly trained organizations. The effect was astonishing, the humming accompaniment of the chorus, the sense of a subdued orchestra played with mutes on. The chorus really needed no accompaniment."

VICTORIA LIBERALS HAND OUT REBUE TO SENATOR TALBOT

vention, and to put forth every effort to bring about his election on Sept. 21st.

With the exception of No. 4, all the resolutions were passed without a flutter, when No. 4 was read Senator Talbot rose to his feet and begged of the delegates not to pass such a resolution, claiming that it was not the business of the convention but that of the business of the provincial executive to say what should be the powers of the executive.

Senator Talbot spoke for 10 minutes and was at times very emphatic in his declarations.

In reply George Orange of Lloydminster, member of the resolution committee spoke in support of the resolution, setting out the belief that the local liberal organizations were quite competent to conduct the local affairs of the party.

Peter Talbot again spoke and the resolution was submitted to a vote, being adopted by a large majority, since the large, in fact, that Senator Talbot did not care for a count of hands.

The meeting of the convention was very brief and was followed by a public meeting in the evening at which Premier Sifton was the principal speaker, dealing with the question of reciprocity.

JACK FROST READY TO PAY DISTRICT A VISIT

Mercury Dropped to 33 Above on Saturday Night — Much Warmer Last Night, Minimum Temperature 42

The crops had a narrow shave Saturday night it would appear from the temperature figures given by the meteorological office this morning but escape they did by one degree. On Saturday night the mercury sank to 33 degrees above zero or one degree above freezing. This is the lowest temperature that has been recorded since the crops have become matured. No damage was done however. As a rule crop specialists affirm that it requires several degrees of frost to do any damage whatever. Saturday night there was no frost the maximum figure being 35 and the highest 40. Sunday night was not merely as cold as the lowest figure being 42 degrees above zero and the highest 53.

TEST PLEASES THE CIVIC OFFICIALS

HIGH WATER PRESSURE GUARANTEES THAT INSURANCE RATE WILL NOT BE RAISED

Considerable gratification is felt in municipal circles regarding the recent test of the underwriters of the fire fighting facilities and the water supply. While the public generally may not have realized the fact, it was a critical moment for the municipality's water supply. The test was a success, and the insurance rates will not be raised.

The inspector is said to have expressed surprise at the result of the tests. In view of the fact that the temporary connections put in to connect the big incinerator pump are done work it is considered that it will be unnecessary to disturb them until after the new incinerator is installed. When the new incinerator is ready for operation the shutting down of the present incinerator will not effect the water pressure one iota. On the other hand if it were attempted to put in the regular connections provided by the incinerator pump people, it would mean that the incinerator would have to be relied on again for water supply. This would hardly be adequate although the situation would not be as distressing as it was the first day of exhibition week when the swollen population of the city demanded an abnormal amount of water.

In mashing potatoes it pays to beat the milk, adding the butter to the milk before turning into the mashed potatoes.

VERY FEW HOUSES FOR RENT IN CITY

RETURN OF SUMMER CAMPERS CAUSES INCREASED DEMAND—TENANTS HAVE TRIALS

"We have not had a house to rent for so long that we would not know how to go about renting one," declared a real estate dealer the other day when asked if he had such a thing as a nice, comfortable cottage, modern, close in, for reasonable rent. "Why, the houses and cottages for a house himself has been looking for a house himself and is unable to find one, so what is anybody else going to do?" Just at this time the demand for houses is increased while the supply is not proportionately greater. That Edmonton's "four hundred" does not find a first lot of first is certain. Instead of seeking some winter resort in sunny California, or mild-breathed Florida, many of Edmonton tenants (tenants of doors, moves from the tent in winter she has been camping during summer, and establishes herself in her own home.

The desiring of tents at this time is causing an increased demand for houses. Hundreds of people have resided in tents during the summer, and are now seeking comfortable houses within which to spend the winter.

Although several million dollars have been expended this year upon new residences, apartment houses and places for people to live, nevertheless, the building of the great metropolis of the northwest is not keeping pace with the needs which are being felt. Each is evidenced by the fact that to rent a house in this city is almost an impossibility. Everything is full and spoken for ahead of time. Houses built to rent are rented even by the time the walls are up and the ordinary individual can determine what is to be the character of the structure. Houses are in such demand that owning real property is profitable; indeed, it is practically their own houses. When the large house is rented for a good few months, the bachelors, young and old, are made to arrive at the price demanded for one under-estimated bedroom.

Some History About Typewriters

Modern and Ancient

FOR example, we sold a firm two special Underwoods. In addition we devised and installed for them, without charge, an Underwood system by which they save $5,000 a year. Hundreds of smaller firms save just as much proportionately. That is what we mean by service. And that is why we have expert simplifiers of office methods to show customers how to use the Underwood to the best advantage—how to make it work for them at its highest efficiency. The service is free. You can't get it with any other typewriter at any price because the Underwood makes it possible.
